System Requirements For iPad Video Converter Factory Pro:

To date there have been few consistent definition of the minimum requirements needed to run Silverlight. Some of the components/APIs necessary are dependent upon your environment in use. Your application needs to be able to support a large range of configurations, including the combination of multiple CPUs, multiple monitors, multiple screens, and combinations of any of the above. Windows does not support natively sharing a display. To overcome this the SDL team is providing a mechanism for us to do this for you. In order to use Silverlight in production,
